Online Community Rules and Etiquette

Thank you for being part of the Connect: Health Tech (CHT) online community. We encourage you to use the online community to share and exchange knowledge, participate in discussions, seek collaborators and showcase opportunities and events with a wide and diverse range of like-minded people.

To ensure the best possible experience for all members, we have established some basic rules and etiquette for participation, please take a moment to familiarise yourself with them. By joining this community, you agree that you will have read and will follow these rules and guidelines.

In order to preserve a welcoming environment that values healthy dialogue, we reserve the right to suspend or terminate membership in this community for anyone who violates these rules. Questions about these rules should be directed to our CHT Hosts at healthtech@admin.cam.ac.uk.

The Rules & Etiquette

- All Community members should treat each other with courtesy and respect. Content uploaded, including discussions and comments are meant to stimulate healthy conversations and not to create contention. Please be respectful of other people's viewpoints.
- Maintain a high degree of integrity within the community.
- Contribute to discussions in a positive and productive manner.
- Use caution when discussing products and services, comments are subject to libel, slander and antitrust laws.
- Refrain from discrimination towards any other individual regarding race, colour, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, age, disability or political view. All defamatory, abusive, profane, threatening, offensive, or illegal materials are strictly prohibited. Do not post anything that you would not want the world to see or that you would not want anyone to know came from you.
- Take responsibility, comments or documents posted within the community are the sole responsibility of the author. If you post documents or other materials, please be sure that you have the right to do so and that another individual or organisation does not hold the copyright.
- Please be transparent within the community. It is very important to gain trust in online relations, therefore be clear who you are and who you work for when posting within any community area. This means including your real name on your accounts along with disclosing your employer and using a profile picture of your likeness not a company logo.
- Report to the CHT Hosts any conduct by any of the community members or leaders which is illegal or unethical in its dealings with other members or organisations or businesses.
